FYI: Chamber Advisory Council Finds California Economy Outpacing Nation

(May 1, 2006) Recent economic indicators indicate the state's economy looks quite healthy and California may be growing a bit more rapidly than the nation, according to the latest quarterly report of the California Chamber of Commerce Economic Advisory Council.

The U.S economy entered 2006 with a "considerable head of steam," the council said. Retail sales declined in February, but remained healthy enough to ensure that GDP growth in the first quarter will exceed 4 percent. The labor market also has remained strong, with monthly job gains restored to levels seen prior to the 2005 hurricanes.

The council believes that the economy will slow gradually during 2006 as healthy job growth provides support for spending.

California

The state has recently seen strong job gains in business services, tourism and financial services. Annual job growth based on job gains the first two months of the year came to 1.9 percent, compared to national job growth of 1.5 percent. The state's unemployment rate has fallen from 5.6 percent to 5 percent over the past year, although it is still a couple of tenths higher than national unemployment rates. California's personal income growth has outpaced the nation by a small margin.

There has been a more even distribution of growth across California regions. The San Francisco Bay Area economy continues to see improved job growth and a solid demand for high tech products and services. Growth in Southern California remains robust with good performances in international trade, technology and tourism.

There has been modest job growth in aerospace, while the motion picture and TV production industry has remained flat over the last year.

Industry Highlights

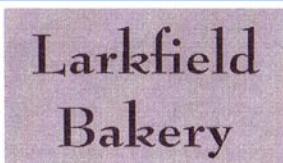

Real Estate: U.S. home sales have been declining in recent months and there has been a considerable buildup in home inventories, especially in California, where the decline has been steeper than the national average. Home price inflation is cooling, especially in new home and condominium markets where inventories are most abundant. The advisory council believes that the decline in home sales will be gradual, but the housing downturn could continue over a considerable period.

In California, commercial real estate markets are vibrant statewide. Southern California markets remain healthiest, with Los Angeles and the Riverside-San Bernardino area among the strongest markets in the United States. Northern California markets have not been as strong, but have seen steady improvements in recent quarters and are likely to continue in 2006.

President's Message

It is a great privilege to start this month's message by reporting some very positive news. The Mark West Area Chamber of Commerce has made some significant strides in improving its cash flow with the help of many members. One of the vacant office spaces has been rented, several new members have joined the Chamber, and the new directory is nearing completion.

A hearty thank you goes to office assistant Dee Gutmann for recruiting several new members. Dee's faithfulness to the Chamber is extraordinary! Dee and office manager Pat Morelli are a great team that serve the Chamber well. In addition to the many tasks that are accomplished, Dee, and her husband Wes, have sponsored the advertising of the Chamber office in the Larkfield Center directory.

The work of John Essman and Kathleen Palmer, Sonoma Connection, continues to be a terrific asset to the Chamber. The new directory should be out soon and the support of Chamber members by purchasing ads has been wonderful. Please remember to use the directory to locate Chamber members when doing business.

The Chamber was again treated to an enjoyable evening at Marbles Café on Piner Road during the April business-after-hours social. Owner and chamber member Jana Kyntl prepared some delightful refreshments and once again many businesses were introduced to the membership.

One more very positive sign this month has been the number of booths that have been reserved for the annual Harvest Faire and Business Showcase scheduled for October 5, 2006 at the Wells Fargo Center for the Arts (Luther Burbank Center). It sounds like the prime spots are going very quickly!

Another community meeting is scheduled for Saturday, May 20, 2006, at the Evangelical Free Church, at 10:00 a.m. Come learn about some important information for the Mark West area.

Finally, one more reminder that the Rincon Valley Firefighters Association annual Mothers' Day breakfast will be at the San Miguel School on May 14, 2006. No reservations are necessary!

Respectfully,

Doug Williams

Tourism: California’s tourism sector has been particularly strong and is expected to be a key contributor to growth going forward. Hotel occupancy rates continue to rise. Early reports for 2006 indicate solid activity for Northern and Southern California tourist and convention destinations.

Banking: California and national consumers have seen declines in home equity lending and mortgage refinancing activity. Commercial and industrial lending - which has lagged in the current business cycle - has gained strength. Although bank loan credit quality and profits will likely diminish in 2006, the council expects the banking sector to remain healthy.

Agriculture and Resources: California agriculture turned in a good year in 2005, and another good year is anticipated in 2006. Overall, agricultural commodity prices remain firm, foreign demand for California agriculture products remain healthy, and farmland prices have continued to rise.

The wet winter has boosted California snow-pack to 130 percent of normal, which means there will be plenty of water this year from California sources. State electricity supplies look sufficient in 2006 due to some new capacity and rising electricity imports resulting from transmission line improvements. Natural gas has softened in early 2006, but the council expects continued sharp volatility in natural gas prices going forward.

Risks: There remains some uncertainty about how much further the Fed will raise interest rates. If the Fed raises its Fed Funds target about 5 percent, this may cause greater deterioration in real estate markets and discourage consumer spending.
